EPA confirms pollution exists in area waters

BY ED LEPOMA
Raw data obtained from an initial study of the Bay St. Louis watershed confirms suspicions that fecal coliform bacteria in some tributaries exceed safe water quality standards for recreational purposes.

The news was delivered last Monday morning when officials with Atlanta's U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the state's Department of Environmental Quality met with members of the Environmental Committee of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce to brief them on a second round of testing.

The EPA and DEQ teams made a strong presence at Bay Marina off Washington Street.

Ed Decker, environmental scientist with EPA Region IV, Atlanta, said 10 staff members were assisting him, and they brought six boats from the office in Athens, Ga. DEQ had a team of 21, using three boats.

The teams began Sunday sampling, with land crews sampling the tributaries to the Bay of St. Louis from bridges. Boat crews sampled in the Bay, the Mississippi Sound and some of the tributaries. This study will provide a water quality data set at cooler temperatures and higher flows than the one previously collected in July, 1998.

Decker explained that EPA, through April 27, would be conducting some additional sampling that was not done in July, including using a dive team to obtain sediment cores and placing down sediment oxygen-demand chambers.

Pressed for some word on what the first sampling showed, Decker told committee members, "The raw data confirms our suspicions." He said the Bay of St. Louis did not show high levels of fecal coliform, but 13 percent of the tributaries sampled "violated water quality standards" for recreational use.

Decker, who grew up in Laurel and spent several years teaching chemistry at Gulf Coast Community College, said he has a personal interest in maintaining the integrity of the Bay of St. Louis.

He called the Bay, "The jewel of the Coast," and he said with the rapid growth expected in Hancock County and all along the Mississippi Coast, it will be a challenge to preserve the Bay of St. Louis.

Greg Jackson, DEQ's section chief out of Jackson, said Hancock County has already benefited by the focus of tests that are underway and will continue.

Besides the costly testing, Jackson said DEQ has spent $36,000 to install a Doppler river gauge on the Jourdan River at the Hwy. 43 bridge. He said the gauge will provide data on the freshwater flow that has not been available before and will quickly alert county officials when flooding is imminent.

Both Decker and Jackson said they were hoping for a heavy rain during this round of testing, but rain was not in the forecast. They said more studies will be done under rain conditions.

Lack of quorum hinders Bay P&Z

BY MARY G. SEILEY

With an agenda worth millions of dollars in development, the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission failed to muster a quorum Wednesday. The meeting was rescheduled for April 28, at 7:30 p.m.

Three of the seven commissioners were on hand for what would have been an almost-assured go-ahead for the Chapel Hill residential development at Highway 90 and South Beach Boulevard.

Also on the agenda were citizens seeking approval of a new apartment building on Hancock Street, and site review details for an art center on Second Street.

With a roomful of on-lookers, the trio of officials had no choice but to cancel the session.

City Council had planned to take

Two charged in embezzlement

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

One arrest was made in early March and another Friday in connection with the embezzlement of over $100,000 from a Diamondhead law firm, according to Hancock County Chief Deputy Sheriff Nathan Hoda.

"Arrested on March 3 was Diana Wilson, 30, road 303, Pass Christian. She was charged with the alleged embezzlement of over $100,000 from the Willis Law Firm in Diamondhead, where she worked as a secretary," Hoda said.

Hoda continued, "On April

23, Wilson's husband, Nino Wilson, 33, was arrested and charged with receiving embezzlement goods. His bond was set at $50,000."

The Wilsons reside just inside the Harrison County line, Hoda reported.

Hoda said the possible embezzlement was brought to the Sheriff's Office's attention on March 2, and the District Attorney's Office was notified.

In addition to the DA's office, the investigation was conducted by Capt. Andy Calvanese from the Harrison County Sheriff's Office and Hoda.

Sewer district forum draws favorable response

BY ED LEPOMA

A crowd of about 60 citizens turned out Thursday night to hear of ambitious plans to sewer four additional areas in Hancock County.

And, for the most part, response was positive, with one Bayside Park resident saying, "I can't wait until it gets in place."

The Hancock County Water and Sewer District hosted the informational forum beginning at 6 p.m. at the Civic Center, and had its staff, the design engineer and at least one official with the state Department of Environmental Quality present to answer all questions.

Board of Supervisors President Philip Moran and District 1 Supervisor Jeep Ladner also attended.

Design engineer Duke Levy told the audience the District has approached area banks for an interim loan of $500,000 that will be used to finance engineering and design plans to extend sewer lines to more areas of the Lakeshore community, the Bayside Park Subdivision, Harbor Drive off U.S. Hwy. 90, and an area on Hwy. 90 between Bayside Park and the Waveland city limits.

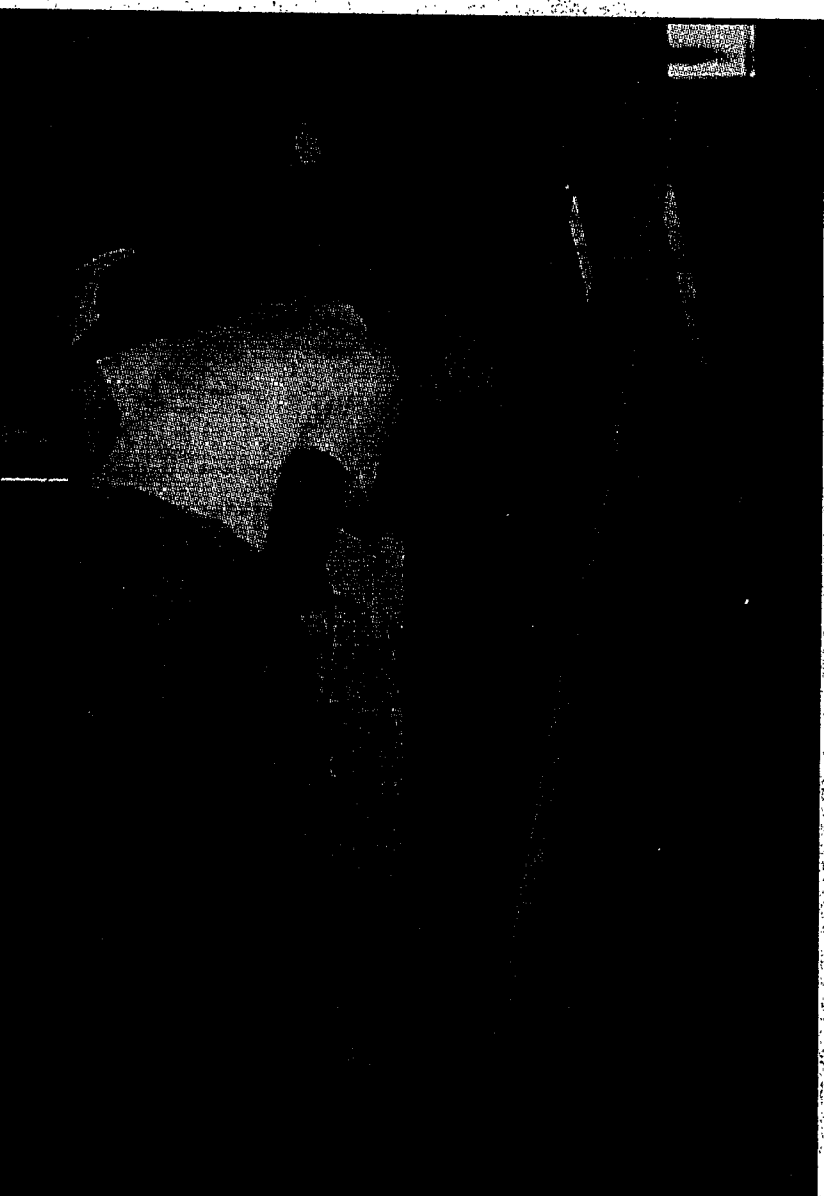

He said the plans are to ultimately land a low-interest $8.3 million loan from the state's revolving fund to finance the four projects.

"Septic tanks are not working. The soils simply won't handle it," said Levy.

And, he assured residents, "The bottom line is that we want to keep the charges down."

For the most part, Levy pointed out that homes in the areas to be sewered are on flat land and scattered. He said a grinder system, such as the one in place in Shoreline Park, would be installed in those areas. In the Klein Subdivision and on Hwy. 90 to the Waveland city limits, Levy said a gravity

Hope Haven fund raiser at Magic

BY ED LEPOMA

It's not too late to buy a ticket or reserve a table for Hope Haven's annual Extravaganza, scheduled Saturday, May 1, aboard the Casino Magic Entertainment barge.

This year's benefit to raise money for Hancock County's shelter for abused and neglected children is being billed as a "Royal Extravaganza" and Mardi Gras royalty from across the Coast are expected to show off their beautiful costumes and compete for King and Queen of the event.

There will also be a silent auction and a raffle with great prizes, including two season passes to the Sea Wolves hockey games.

And, event organizer Lois Griffin asks patrons to dress casually, with men in coats or sports jacket and ladies in party dresses. There will also be a live band and food.

Individual tickets are available at $15 each, and reserved tables that seat eight are $100. Reservations can be made by calling 467-7945 during the day and 255-5241 in the evening, and tickets can be purchased at the door on the night of the Extravaganza.

Tickets are also available at: Carole's Old Town Restaurant, the Youth Court, Bay Drugs and the Magic Touch hair salon, all in Bay St. Louis, and at Diamondhead Discount Drugs.

Civil Center restoration

The Hancock County Civil Center, located at the intersection of Highway 90 and Second Street, is undergoing a major restoration project. The project includes the replacement of the roof, the installation of new windows, and the repainting of the exterior walls. The restoration is being completed by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Diamondhead After Hours

The Diamondhead After Hours event is a weekly gathering of local musicians and artists. The event is held at the Diamondhead Community Center and features a variety of performances, including live music, art displays, and a silent auction. The event is open to the public and is a great way to support the local arts and music scene.

Assistance meeting

A regional assistance meeting will be held May 3 at 7 p.m. at the Dallas Branch of the Office for Civil Rights at the Coast Electric Conference Center. The meeting is open to the public and is a great way to learn more about the services provided by the Office for Civil Rights. For more information, contact the Dallas Branch at (214) 762-1000.

April 15, children at the Pass Christian Library celebrated National Library Week by competing in a yo-yo contest. Over 25 children, 14 and younger, performed their tricks for a panel of four judges. Tricks included walk the dog, sleeper, and around the world. Trophies were given for first, second and third places. All participants earned a certificate and prizes donated by local merchants. Roadway fatalities climb above 900

Mississippi's 1998 roadway fatalities climbed to 948, the first count above 900 since 1971 when a record 951 deaths occurred, according to the Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning. The deaths occurred in 842 crashes.

"This is a 10.1 increase in fatalities over the 861 killed in 1997," said Ron Sennett, Public Safety Planning's executive director, and, he noted, "an average of 2.6 deaths per day on Mississippi roadways."

Approximately 38.6 percent of the fatalities were alcohol related, and 78.5 percent of the 609 drivers killed were not using safety belts. Of the 172 front-seat passengers killed, 63.7 percent were not belted, and 72.7 percent of the 72 back-seat passengers killed were not belted.

None of the nine bicyclists killed was wearing a helmet, and 55.6 of the 27 motorcyclists and ATV operators were not wearing helmets. Also included in the 948 fatalities were 59 pedestrians.

A total of 509 fatalities occurred on Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol highways, 234 occurred on city streets and 205 were on county roads.

Sennett noted that most of the fatalities, 417, occurred on roadways with a posted speed limit of 55 miles per hour. On roadways with posted limits of 45 to 50 miles per hour there were 213 fatalities, on those posted 60 miles per hour or more 174, those posted 35 to 40 miles per hour 102 and those posted 30 miles per hour or less 33.

Young drivers, age 15-20, accounted for 129 of the fatalities. "Motor vehicle crashes are the number one killer of young people," Sennett said.

"If a disease were taking the lives of more than 2.5 Mississippians each day, we likely would consider it an epidemic," he noted. "There probably would be public panic and intensive Centers for Disease Control (CDC) intervention. We must be equally concerned about the high number of deaths on our roadways." He advocated that:

- every Mississippi motorist abide by all roadway safety laws;
- motorists never consume alcoholic beverages before or during the operation of a motor vehicle;

- All occupants of motor vehicles use age-appropriate occupant protection devices;
- All children ride in the vehicle's back seat;
- all bicyclists, motorcyclists and ATV operator wear helmets;

- there be more young driver education and training;
- elderly driver status and the gaming impact upon traffic safety be studied.

The Mississippi Association of Highway Safety Leaders, a group of private and public sector volunteers, interested in highway safety, believes legislation also could help reduce roadway fatalities.

It recommends that legislation be enacted to provide Mississippi with a primary safety belt law, which would enable law enforcement officers to issue citations for failure to use safety belts without finding cause for another traffic violation; lower the definition of driving under the influence (DUI) to .08 percent blood alcohol content; permit sheriff's departments and smaller cities to run radar; provide graduated driver licensing; prohibit children from riding in pickup beds; have greater fines for work-zone citations; and allow photo enforcement for red light running and speeding.

"We are encouraged by the fact that 1998 motor vehicle child restraint use has increased to 59 percent from the 50 percent in 1997 and that safety belt use has increased to 58 percent from the 48.2 percent in 1997," Sennett said, "but it's painfully obvious that we need to do much better."

"Another encouraging trend is that the 38.6 percent of alcohol-related fatalities in 1998 was slightly lower than the 40 percent in 1997."

"If roadway fatality figures seem like cold statistics, please remember that these numbers," he said, "are husbands, wives, parents, grandparents, children, brothers, sisters and friends. Roadway deaths are a human tragedy, and every Mississippian who rides or walks on our state's roadways must give safety the high priority it deserves."

GRPC names Taylor chief

BY ED LEPOMA
The Gulf Regional Planning Commission has dipped into its own ranks, naming longtime Coast planner Jeff Taylor as its new director.

Taylor, 47, was selected Thursday night over about 60 applicants to replace Ned Boudreaux, who retired earlier this year. He had been serving as active director.

Taylor, a Coast native who grew up in Biloxi, has more than 14 years of experience with the GRPC. He has worked closely with many public officials throughout the growing Coast on planning and development issues.

He has a degree in urban planning from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Two recycle days scheduled in Diamondhead

BY ED LEPOMA

Items to be recycled will be picked up on two separate days in Diamondhead beginning Monday, May 3.

Larry Kehrer, president of Mississippi ResorSys, which will pick up the recycled products, including mixed paper, says the Diamondhead community will be clearly divided along major roads to expedite collections.

"Starting from the main entrance (in Diamondhead) to the traffic circle around the community center, the dividing line follows Diamondhead Drive East to Golf Club Drive and then follows Golf Club all the way to Kapalama Drive. The dividing line finishes by following Kapalama to the east," Kehrer explained.

He said on Mondays, all households on or to the south and east of this dividing line will be collected. This includes the section of Diamondhead below Interstate 10.

On Fridays, all households to the west and north of the dividing line will be collected.

Kehrer asked all residents to have their recycling bins at the curb by 7:30 a.m. on their respective collection days.

"Our truck may service your street earlier than in the past due to changed collection routes," Kehrer said. "Similarly, we may service your street later in the day, so do not worry if we have not come by your house as early as you are used to."

Mixed paper to be accepted for recycling includes: newspapers and magazines, catalogs, writing paper, junk mail, cereal boxes, telephone books, school paper and paper bags.

Kehrer suggests that residents pack the mixed paper in paper bags and set it out with other recyclables on collection day.

If you have any questions, you are asked to call 467-9268.

WLOX-TV 13 will broadcast live from City Hall on June 30.

Bay man gets life

BY ED LEPOMA

A Florida Circuit Court Judge last week sentenced a former Bay St. Louis man to life in prison without parole after he pleaded guilty to first-degree murder.

James Daniel Gilmer, 23, who once lived in Bayside Park, was charged in April of 1998 with the bludgeoning death of Donna Marie Bolinder, a 38-year-old grandmother who lived in St. Petersburg, Fla.

According to St. Petersburg police, Gilmer moved to St. Petersburg about a year ago, and allegedly met Bolinder at a bar in the northeast part of town. They left after a few drinks, and Bolinder's body was found about seven hours later in a residential trash bin about 300 feet from the bar. Detectives said she had been repeatedly hit in the head and chest with a cement ring used to shield a lawn sprinkler from mowers.

Gilmer was arrested shortly afterwards at a residence where he was staying, only about four blocks from the bar.

Records show that Bay St. Louis police had arrested Gilmer April 4, 1997 on an aggravated sexual battery charge, but had to release him because the victim would not come forward to press charges.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Today marks the Pass Christian Blessing of the Fleet at the Pass Harbor.

Festivities begin at noon with decorated fishing boats from along the Coast lining up at 1 p.m. for the blessing.

This is a festive event for Pass Christian with some $4,000 in prizes at stake for the boats entering the boat parade.

There will be first, second and third place awards for pleasure boats, boats 35 feet and over, boats 36 to 45 feet and boats 46 feet and over.

Leo (Chipper) McDermott, Pass Christian Alderman is the chairman of the event with Melissa Malley, queen.

Prizes will be awarded at 3 p.m.

Numerous clergy will participate in the annual boat blessing.

There will be live entertainment, lots of good food and fun for folks of all ages.

The City of Bay St. Louis on Friday recognized volunteers sponsored by numerous organizations, schools, churches, etc.

Congratulations are in order for each and everyone recognized at the event held on the grounds of the Historic Bay Depot.

The breeze was blowing and this kept the gnats away while the clouds covered the sun and it was pleasant under the big live oak tree.

It was very pleasing to see several students recognized for their volunteering efforts. As we all know, they will be the leaders of our community in the years ahead.

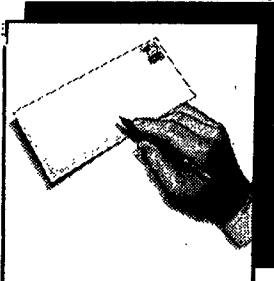

This was a Tercentennial event of the City of Bay St. Louis, sponsored in cooperation with the Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Mayor Eddie A. Favre and Council President Carleen M. Moran presented the certificates. Bay High School Air Force JROTC presented the colors, Father Pete Mockler of Our Lady of the Gulf gave the invocation, while Mike Cuevas, Bay Director of Cultural Affairs, led the Pledge of Allegiance and welcome.

Following the ceremony, refreshments, which included punch and cake, were served by several volunteers.

We live in a great community and many, many of our residents are volunteers who help in so many ways.

Thanks again to all volunteers for their efforts in our county.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Officials need more laws against burning

Law makers:

You must pass a law that states:

- no burning
- no time
- no place
- no anything, or go to jail or be fined!

Neighbors almost caused our home to burn down. One block away, people cleaned and burned things on the lot, which caused another neighbor's store room to burn, which had expensive yard equipment in it. Fires are burning all around Mississippi. STOP IT NOW!

Thank you,

American Legion condemns opposing flag protection

Calling on the Clinton administration to be consistent, the elected leader of the 2.8 million member American Legion condemned the administration for lobbying against Senate Joint Res. 14, a flag-protection constitutional amendment.

Even as the administration testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee against Senate Joint Res. 14, a constitutional amendment that would protect our flag, various polls conducted over 10 years have shown consistently that 80 percent of the American people support the amendment. Forty-nine state legislatures have passed resolutions supporting the amendment.

"When the President's place in history was in the hands of members of Congress, the administration wanted the 'will of the people' to prevail, because the polls showed most Americans wanted him to finish his presidency," said National Commander Butch Miller. "All we want is for the Clinton administration to be consistent in this regard. If the polls can save the presidency, then the polls can save our flag."

Miller and other Legion officials are enraged at the president's flip-flop; Clinton supported protecting the flag when he was a presidential candidate while addressing The American Legion National Convention in Chicago in 1991.

"Crossing the Memorial Bridge in Washington, D.C., you see the entrance to Arlington National Cemetery, the Korean War Memorial, the Vietnam War Memorial, the Iwo Jima Memorial, the World War I Memorial site, and may even pass a school where children are respectfully raising the American flag. Yet, the administration seems to believe that our flag is not worth protecting," Miller said.

"Religating our flag to a piece of cloth" is a revisionist view of our nation's history. Our founding fathers did not permit desecration of the American flag. The flag was protected in its role as an incident of our sovereignty.

"The flag flies over our young men and women in uniform in Yugoslavia. We approved the use of the Flag of the United States on foreign oil tankers during the Persian Gulf War so Saddam Hussein couldn't attack them. An attack on them, like an attack on our men and women in uniforms, would have been an assault on the sovereignty of the United States of America."

Refugees from Kosovo are fleeing to the protection of that flag, as did many of our forefathers.

"A piece of cloth — of, no value? Is that their position? God help our nation if it is their final testament that the flag that may drape the coffins of some of our sons and daughters is just a piece of cloth in their eyes."

The proposed 28th Amendment, "The Congress shall have power to prohibit the physical desecration of the Flag of the United States," passed in the House in each of the last two sessions — and is likely to pass again in the 106th Congress. Essentially, two Senate votes are all that keep the amendment from being sent to the states for ratification.

A pair of 5-4 rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court in 1989 and 1990 invalidated century-old federal law and the laws of 48 states that banned physical desecration of the U.S. Flag, and ruled flag-protection statutes unconstitutional. Only by a constitutional amendment can the American people reclaim the right to protect the U.S. Flag from acts of physical desecration.

In Melissa's wake: How to defend your computer against a 'virus'

As computer viruses go, "Melissa" was a mere head cold, a case of the digital sniffles. But other, more malignant viruses lurk in cyberspace and can be spread around the world with a single keystroke.

Luckily, a good virus protection program and a little caution can go a long way toward staving off a "viral" infection, says a University of Mississippi computer expert.

"Computer viruses have been around for years, but with the increasing number of computer users and with many of their computers connecting to others through office networks, online services and the Internet, the virus problem is growing," says Teresa McCarver, an Ole Miss computer consultant and manager of the university's computer system help-desk.

"Melissa" made "national headlines" as a "virus" which, in the guise of an attachment, snaked into the user's e-mail system and, in effect, re-sent itself to 50 other users culled from the computer's address book. More than 300 companies reported infections, and at least 100,000 PCs were hit, according to press reports. But, for the most part, the damage was limited — the biggest loss was worker productivity.

"At this point there seems to be no real harm caused to your computer," McCarver says. "Melissa is just a nuisance."

The next major virus could be a lot worse, however. With that in mind, McCarver offers the following tips to computer users:

• Know the enemy.

A computer virus is "a piece of programming code designed by a misguided individual to infiltrate an innocent computer through shared files," McCarver explains. A virus can be spread by diskettes, shareware, e-mail and the Internet.

Once it has infected a system, it can cause a range of problems, such as simply copying itself repeatedly, displaying messages on the screen or even deleting files from the hard drive.

• Seek protection.

A reliable virus protection program is essential for any computer system today. A good program scans the computer's system for viruses and comes with a "disinfect" option which will cure most illnesses.

These programs can be downloaded from the Internet or purchased in a bookstore, office supply store or from software catalogs. Most can be set up to automatically scan the system daily.

For a current list of virus protection software applications, visit the International Computer Security Association's (ICSA) Web site at www.icsa.net.

• Keep up to date.

If a supplier publishes a protection package upgrade, get it immediately. These programs are updated frequently to handle new types of viruses, including many you've probably never heard of — and, hopefully (if the program works), never will.

• Scan everything.

Before running programs from a diskette that has been used on other computers, scan it for viruses. Do the same with shareware files that can be downloaded and saved on disk.

"Think of it like this," McCarver says. "If your dog has fleas and you bring it over to play with my dog, then, most likely, my dog will get fleas, too."

• Listen and learn.

New viruses pop up frequently and may go undetected by existing programs. So keep yourself informed about the latest developments by heeding warnings from colleagues, vendors and/or virus-related Web sites.

Check out the latest info on new viruses on the ICSA Web site. As the virus problem continues to grow, McCarver said, "It's important to understand what these creatures are, how they work and how to protect your computer from them."

VA is Y2K compliant

The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) announced that veterans benefit entitlement payments will continue uninterrupted at the change of the century.

The VA has stated that their ability to produce benefit payments is Y2K compliant and will continue to test the abilities of their systems throughout the upcoming year.

To ensure that there will be no delay in payments, the VA will issue most of the recurring benefit payment checks for January 2000 on December, 1999. This will allow the VA an additional month for the detection and solution of any problems that were unforeseen.

January 2000 benefit checks for the following programs will be made on Dec. 30, 1999: Compensation and Pension, Restored Entitlement Program for Survivors, Spina Bifida Payments, Chapter 21-Vocational Rehabilitation and Counseling, Chapter 32-Veterans Educational Assistance Program, Chapter 32-Section 901, Chapter 35-Dependents Educational Assistance, and Chapter 1606-Montgomery Bill-Selected Reserve.

Lady 'Cats even division mark at 11-11

Pearl River Community College's Lady Wildcats evened their South Division softball record at 11-11 with an 8-7, 13-8 doubleheader sweep over East Central Monday in Poplarville.

PRCC improved to 19-17 overall, while the Lady Warriors dropped to 24-24 and 9-11 in division play.

East Central went up 1-0 in the top of the first, but Pearl River's Jessica Fiveash sacrificed in a run, then Leah Fincannon's singled in Traci McMichael to take a 2-1 edge.

After trying with a solo run in the second, the Lady Warriors went up 5-2 in the top of third with three runs off a single, two errors, and Amanda Harris' two-RBI double. In the fourth, the Fiveash opened with a double, then Alicia Lenoir singled in the run to make things 5-3.

A double and an error padded ECC's lead to 6-3 in the sixth, but Pinky Willis had a two-RBI sacrifice in the bottom of the inning to make things 6-5. EC pitcher Ragan Mitchell doubled to open the seventh, then Boosie Carter singled her home, but the stage was set for a climactic finish.

Mitchell retired the first two PRCC batters, then Marie Willoughby reached via an error. East Central couldn't get a handle on McMichael's ensuing single scoring Willoughby and the freshman shortstop rounded the bases to tie things at 7. Fiveash doubled, Leah Fincannon walked, then Lenoir cracked a double for the one-run win.

Pearl River finished with 12 hits, led by Fiveash with two doubles and a single. Carrie Thorhill singled and doubled, Lenoir had two singles (two RBI), and McMichael had two singles (two RBI) while Willoughby, Fincannon and Stacy Guillot all singled.

Mitchell paced ECC's 10-hit attack with a triple, a double and two singles. Harris had two doubles, while Dana Misso singled and doubled.

In the second game, the Lady Wildcat's 20-hit effort kept EC at bay. The Lady Warriors led 4-0 after 1 1/2, but PRCC took a 5-4 lead off Thornhill's two-run homer, Willoughby's RBI single, and McMichael's two RBI single. A triple and single tied things in the top of the third, but Pearl River went up 6-5 off Guillot's RBI single in the bottom of the inning.

East Central answered with two runs to make its final lead — 7-6 — of the afternoon off two singles, a triple and two sacrifices, but PRCC tied things off Fiveash's RBI single, then burst for six runs in the bottom of the fifth to lead 13-7. The Lady 'Cats had six singles — including McMichael's three-RBI effort — a double, and two errors in the inning.

ECCC managed only one run in the top of the seventh.

On Friday in Wesson, PRCC split with Copiah-Lincoln, winning the first game 10-8, but losing the nightcap 13-0 via the 10-run rule.

PRCC had 14 hits in the win, paced by Willoughby's four singles, while only five singles were mustered in the loss. Col-Lin had 13 hits in both games.

VA is working closely with its partners who help produce and deliver Compensation and Pension, Vocational Rehabilitation and Counseling, Insurance and Educational benefit payments to ensure that all its benefit payments will continue uninterrupted in the new century.

The Department of the Treasury prepares the VA's payments (direct deposit transactions or checks). The Treasury has been working with the Federal Reserve System which delivers direct deposit transactions to beneficiaries' financial institutions through the national automated clearinghouse system.

Most insurance payments already occur in the last rather than the first week of the month.

There are no plans to change the payment process for Chapter 30-Montgomery GI payments because they are also issued at month's end. The VA is developing a contingency in the event there is a problem with the certification processing in early January 2000 so that checks would not be delayed.

VA is also examining other benefit payment systems to determine if the pay date will be moved from January 2000. Further information on other benefits will be made available as these decisions are made.

The VA will remain in close contact with the Department of the Treasury, the Federal Reserve System and the United States Postal Service to ensure their Year 2000 plans are implemented on schedule.

6A-THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, APRIL 25, 1999

Lady 'Cats end season with split

Pearl River Community College's Lady Wildcats wrapped up their 1999 regular season last Thursday in Poplarville with a non-division doubleheader split with East Mississippi.

PRCC fell 11-8 in the first game, but rebounded with a 16-9 victory in the nightcap to end its regular season at 21-19. The Lady Wildcats resume play when they host the MACJC State-Region 23 Tournament at Tatum Park in Hattiesburg Friday through Sunday. PRCC will be one of four South Division teams pitted against four from the North.

Coach Laurie Neelis' team finished 12-12 in the South Division with its 7-1 win over Mississippi Gulf Coast Wednesday and earned its tournament berth via a tiebreaker with East Central. PRCC defeated ECCC three of the four times they played this year.

PRCC will join Copia-Lincoln, Hinds and Jones from the South, while East Miss has sealed a North berth. The remainder of the North teams and the overall tournament seeding will be decided next week.

In the first game Thursday, East Mississippi went up 4-0 in the top of the first, but PRCC cut things to 4-2 when Traci McMichael hit a two-RBI single in the bottom of the inning. After scoreless second and third innings, the Lady Lions added a run in the top of the fourth. Stacy Guillot cracked a two-RBI double in the bottom of the inning to pull within one. Jessica Fiveash bashed a two-run homer in the bottom of the fifth to give PRCC the lead at 6-5, then Alicia Lenoir added an RBI single.

Both teams scored solo runs in the sixth to make things 8-6 PRCC's way, but the Lady Lions iced the win with a five-run seventh inning. Tabitha Williams kicked off the game-winning rally with a three-run homer.

Leah Fincannon led PRCC's 13-hit effort with two doubles and a single, while Fiveash had two singles and five RBI. Marie Willoughby and Lenoir had two singles each, while McMichael, Guillot, Carrie Thornhill and Jana Jenkins all singled. Heather Weems led EMCC (15 hits) with two doubles and two singles.

PRCC's softball team swept by Hinds

Pearl River Community College's Lady Wildcats are 16-16 overall, 8-10 in the South Division following back-to-back doubleheader sweeps.

PRCC fell to Jones 16-8 and 4-2 in Poplarville Thursday, while dropping two games, Hinds 6-0 and 17-4 Tuesday in Raymond.

Four doubleheaders remain in the regular season — two against division foes — before Pearl River hosts the State Tournament April 30-May 2 at the Timberton Complex near William Carey College. The winner of that event will host the National Tournament May 7-8.

Against Jones, PRCC scored only four runs in the first five innings, while JCJC's six runs in the fifth and one in the sixth made things 16-4. The Lady Wildcats used five hits, a walk and a sacrifice for four in the bottom of the sixth to end the scoring.

JCJC finished with 21 hits and no errors, while PRCC collected 15 hits and committed four miscues.

Wendy Thomas paced the Lady Bobcats with a triple and three singles, while Amanda Delk and Megan Pickering each had a double and two singles.

For The River, Pinky Willis had three singles, while Traci McMichael had a double and a single.

Kristen Parker had two RBI off her two singles, while Stacy Guillot and Marie Willoughby also added two singles each. Jessica Fiveash, Leah Fincannon, Carrie Thornhill and Kam Fairchild all singled.

The nightcap saw superb defensive play by both teams with

In the second game, PRCC burst to an 8-0 lead after two innings and never looked back. The Lady Wildcats used five singles and two walks for its five runs in the first, then Fiveash blasted another two-run shot over left in the second. The Lady Lions used four singles, a double and a two-run homer by Amy Robertson to pull within three — 8-5 — in the top of the third, but PRCC answered with five in the bottom of the inning.

Fiveash cracked her third homer of the day in the sixth to finish PRCC's scoring, while EMCC added solo runs in the fifth and sixth and two in the seventh.

Pearl River finished with 21 hits, led Fiveash's two homers and single (six RBI), while Willoughby, McMichael, Lenoir and Pinky Willis had three singles a piece. Fincannon and Guillot had two singles each, while Thornhill and Jenkins singled. East Miss had 10 hits.

Against Gulf Coast on Wednesday, PRCC lost the first game 9-5, then rebounded with a 7-2 victory in the nightcap to claim the berth. In the loss, Pearl River went up 1-0 in the first, but Gulf Coast answered with five. Two more came PRCC's way in the fourth, but the Lady 'Dogs' four runs in the bottom of the inning ended the hosts' scoring and iced the win. Pearl River scored two runs in the seventh.

McMichael paced PRCC's 11-hit attack with three singles and an RBI, while Willoughby had two singles. Lenoir, Fincannon, Jenkins, Thornhill, Willis and Kristen Parker all singled.

Gulf Coast played error-free and had 13 hits. PRCC made one error.

In the nightcap, the Lady Wildcats scored early and walked away with the win and a tournament berth. PRCC led 7-0 after three and that score remained intact until the Lady Bulldogs added solo runs in the sixth and seventh.

McMichael had two singles and four RBI, while Lenoir singled twice and had three RBI. Willoughby, Willis and Fiveash had two singles a piece for PRCC, while Parker and Guillot had singles. PRCC made one error.

Gulf Coast finished with five hits and two errors and had six batters reach via walks.

PRCC committing the sole error of the game.

Things were 0-0 until Jones' Natasha Allen doubled in a run to go up 1-0. In the top of the fifth, the Lady Bobcats pushed their lead to 4-0 off three singles, a double and an error.

In the bottom of the sixth, PRCC finally got on the scoreboard when Jana Jenkins' single and Willoughby's double set the state for McMichael's two-RBI single to make things 4-2 as they ended.

PRCC and JCJC finished with six hits each. Fincannon paced Pearl River with a double and a single, while Alicia Lenoir and Willis had two singles each and McMichael, Willoughby and Jenkins singled. The Lady Bobcats won the game with only one extra base hit — a triple by Susan Smith.

In the opening game against Hinds on Tuesday, the Lady Wildcats managed only three hits — all singles. Hinds opened with a 2-0 lead in the top of the first, then added two runs in the fourth and fifth innings. McMichael, Willis and Thornhill picked up PRCC's hits, while the Lady Eagles' seven hits included a triple and six singles.

PRCC had one error, while Hinds had two.

In the nightcap, McMichael's RBI triple in the first inning was followed by Fiveash's two-run homer to give The River a brief 3-0 lead, but PRCC opened the game defensively with three straight errors and Hinds led 4-3 after one.

The Lady Eagles put things out of reach in the bottom of the second with eight runs, then added four in the third and one in the fourth.

Burns to coach PRCC's soccer

Veteran high school coach Tim Burns of Bay St. Louis has been hired as head coach of Pearl River Community College's first men's and women's soccer teams this fall.

Burns' hiring was officially approved Monday by the PRCC Board of Trustees.

A native of New Orleans, Burns coached at St. Stanislaus Prep School in Bay St. Louis from 1992 until 1997, guiding the men's soccer team to state championships in 1996 and 1997. He was also head baseball coach and an assistant football coach at Stanislaus.

After the 1996-97 school year he left coaching for a brief stint as a stock broker.

"I'm very excited about my new job," Burns said. "Pearl River's recruiting district is solid in soccer and has excellent programs in the Hattiesburg and Hancock County areas. Picayune has a fast-growing program."

PRCC Athletic Director Keith Daniels says Burns was a solid choice.

"We're glad to have a coach with such vast knowledge of the game with us," Daniels said. "We feel like our first season is in good hands. Coach Burns is knowledgeable and personable and will fit right in with the goals we've set for the soccer program."

Burns will be assisted by Adam Breerwood, who has been a baseball assistant coach at PRCC for the past two seasons. Breerwood, a 1995 graduate of PRCC, played baseball under Burns at St. Stanislaus.

Burns believes in aggressive play on the soccer field.

"That's my approach," he said. "I like to play aggressive defense and let your offense build off of that."

Four tryout sessions for the coming seasons will be held for men and women: two on the PRCC campus in Poplarville, one in Hattiesburg, and one in Bay St. Louis. Two months ago, the PRCC Board approved 12 tuition scholarships for each team, which will be split to accommodate 20-player rosters.

PRCC is presently constructing a new soccer complex adjacent to the college's baseball and softball diamonds that will be ready to go in August.

Pearl River will compete in the MACJC soccer league along with Copiah-Lincoln, East Central, East Mississippi, Hinds, Holmes-Goodman (men and women), Holmes-Grenada (men only), Holmes-Ridgeland (men only), Itawamba, Jones, Mississippi Delta and Mississippi Gulf Coast. PRCC will kick off its 20-game season Aug. 30. Burns said 2-3 men's and women's games will be played weekly.

Burns graduated from Jesuit High School in New Orleans in 1977 where he was a standout athlete in football, track and wrestling. After earning his bachelor of science degree in physical education and health at the University of Mississippi in 1982, he coached a variety of sports at St. Martin's High School in New Orleans and St. Paul High School in Covington prior to arriving at St. Stanislaus. Burns has done graduate study at the University of Southern Mississippi in

Tim Burns

Hattiesburg. He and his wife of 12 years, Laura, are the parents of two children, Ashley, 10, and Pepper, 9.

PRCC soccer has Bay flair

When Pearl River Community College's first-ever men's and women's soccer teams make history Aug. 30 when they open their 1999 season, the programs will be in good hands. Former St. Stanislaus coach Tim Burns, left, of Bay St. Louis, was officially hired April 12 by the PRCC Board of Trustees to head the programs, while one of his former Stanislaus pupils, Adam Breerwood, right, a Bay native, will be his assistant coach. Breerwood, a 1995 Pearl River grad, is about to wrap up his second year at The River as assistant baseball coach under head coach Jim Nightengale. Burns won state soccer championships in 1996 and 1997 with the Rock-A-Chaws. PRCC will kick off a 20-game fall schedule against Holmes-Ridgeland Aug. 30. (PRCC sports information photo)

PRCC soccer tryouts set

Pearl River Community College will conduct three men's and women's soccer tryout sessions at three different sites on the college's first-ever teams to be fielded this fall.

The tryout sessions are set for:

April 27 — Tatum Park in Hattiesburg (fields 8, 9, 10). Women: 4:30-6 p.m. Men: 5:30-7 p.m.

APRIL 28-Bay St. Louis at Demboski Complex, women 4:30-6 p.m.; and men 5:30-7 p.m.

April 29 — PRCC campus in Poplarville. Tryouts are only for players currently enrolled at PRCC. Women: 4:30-6 p.m. Men: 5:30-7 p.m.

Two months ago, the PRCC Board approved 12 tuition scholarships for each team, which will be split accordingly to accommodate 20-player rosters. Veteran high school coach Tim Burns of Bay St. Louis was recently hired as head coach of two teams.

A native of New Orleans, Burns coached at St. Stanislaus 1992-1997 guiding the men's soccer team to state championships in 1996 and 1997. He was also head baseball coach and an assistant football coach at Stanislaus.

After the 1996-97 school year, he left coaching for a brief stint as a stock broker.

Burns will be assisted by Adam Breerwood, who has been a baseball assistant coach at PRCC for the past two seasons. Breerwood, a 1995 PRCC graduate, played baseball under Burns at St. Stanislaus.

Pearl River is constructing a new soccer complex adjacent to the college's baseball and softball diamonds. Construction is already underway and the facility will be ready to go by Sept. 1's home opener against Copiah-Lincoln.

The Wildcats and Lady Wildcats open their inaugural season Aug. 30 against Holmes-Ridgeland at Ridgeland. Burns said 2-3 men's and women's games will be played weekly.

Pearl River will compete in the MACJC soccer league along with Copiah-Lincoln, East Central, East Mississippi, Hinds, Holmes-Goodman (men and women), Holmes-Grenada (men only), Holmes-Ridgeland (men only), Itawamba, Jones, Mississippi Delta and Mississippi Gulf Coast.

For information regarding the tryout sessions, call Burns at (228) 466-3451 or Breerwood at (601) 795-1326.

Select Lady 'Cats take first-round wins

A big-picture view of market volatility

Volatility and risk are two concepts that deter many potential investors from the stock market. Although the two concepts are related, they are not synonymous. Understanding volatility, and how it differs from risk, will increase your understanding of the way the market works and why stocks are still the best investment vehicle for long-term investors.

Volatility in the stock market refers to movement — up or down. Some call it fluctuation. Whichever term you prefer, the fact is that no stock price remains the same. There are always buyers and sellers, and the price of a stock changes in relation to supply and demand.

If demand is up, there are more buyers and the price of the stock goes up. When there are more sellers, the price of the stock goes down. If it drops low enough, it attracts buyers, and the cycle continues. In the stock market, the principle of supply and demand creates fluctuation, or volatility.

Risk, on the other hand, is the perceived possibility of loss. For example, during market declines, or downward fluctuations, you could see a loss in the market value of your stocks. Of course, you lose only if you sell your securities at that time.

Investors who understand the volatility of the market know that fundamentally sound stocks rebound. These investors are in for the long term. They weather the storm, stay the course, and have historically been rewarded for their patience. Here is a little market history to illustrate this fact.

The years between 1972 and 1982 were a time of strong growth for small-company stocks. During this period, these stocks generated a

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Submitted by Craig Foster
Edward Jones Co.

compound annual return of nearly 20 percent. With returns like that, you may be surprised to learn that during that same period there were three major market declines.

If the cumulative annual change in the value of a $10,000 investment in small-company stocks during those years were shown on a chart, you would see an upward trend line rising impressively over the 10-year period. It would be apparent that short-term fluctuations generally smooth out over time.

However, if you looked at a chart showing the month-by-month percentage returns of small-company stocks during that time, you would see jagged up-and-down spikes. That's because a short-term perspective tends to amplify price movements. Short-term fluctuations can blur the focus on long-term upward trends. Checking prices on a daily basis can make an investment look more volatile than it might really be over the long term.

Concerned about market volatility? Avoid losing sight of the long-term movement of your investments by focusing too intently on day-to-day activity. It's the big picture, rather than short-term snapshots, that should capture your view.

Gaming, specialty travel show comes to Mississippi Gulf Coast April 26-28

Travel agents from across the country will arrive on the Mississippi Gulf Coast to attend Travel Agent magazine's Gaming & Specialty TravelExpo Monday, April 26 through Wednesday, April 28 at the newly opened Beau Rivage in Biloxi. Bringing the travel agent show to the Mississippi Gulf Coast was a combined effort by Martin B. Detsch, president of Travel Agent Trade Shows; George Smith, director of Tourism Development, a division of the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development; Stephen B. Richer, executive director of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Convention & Visitors Bureau; and Ann Hoff, director of hotel marketing, Beau Rivage.

Held for the first year outside of Las Vegas, the Gaming & Specialty TravelExpo will be the largest national travel event ever held in Mississippi. Over 600 travel agents from 43 states are already registered to attend, making this year's venue, the "Playground of the South," a bigger draw than the previous show in Las Vegas. This niche marketing trade show for travel agents from coast to coast will also highlight its Southern Destination Showcase that focuses on the 12 member states of the Travel South marketing consortium. An over 40-year veteran of the tourism industry, Deutsch accurately predicted that holding a show on the Mississippi Gulf Coast would attract significant travel agent interest. "In a few short years the Mississippi Gulf Coast has become the major gaming destination in the U.S. South," said Deutsch. "And it's even more impressive if you combine this reality with the existing tourism product which offers a powerful combination of ingredients such as beaches, golf, fishing, cultural attractions, and a broad roster of special events that travel agents can successfully sell." Deutsch added that delegates to this expanded edition of the Gaming & Specialty TravelExpo will also be won over by the outstanding southern hospitality and memorable regional cuisine. Based on the current trend in registration, Travel Agent Trade Shows officials predict that by March 26 more than 700 delegates will be registered for this year's TravelExpo. Mississippi tourism leaders are more than pleased by the overwhelming travel agent interest and look forward to showcasing the area.

George Smith of the Mississippi Tourism Division said, "The Mississippi tourism industry has invested heavily in promoting its product to travel agents nationally. This showcase will allow us to demonstrate our strong product in terms of outdoor recreation, history, music and our newest part of the industry — gaming. We look forward to stimulating a lot of new opportunities through travel agent sales for both Mississippi and the entire South." "The Mississippi Gulf Coast has been working closely with the State of Mississippi to generate travel agent interest in our tourism product," Richer commented. "When the travel agent community comes here, they will find a product of high value that's easily promoted and customer satisfying. We look forward to showcasing the Coast in conjunction with Beau Rivage, a spectacular new property."

Employee incentive stock options

Q. I work for a growing company that awards employee stock options each year. After four years, I have accumulated 20,000 options. The options vest at a rate of 1/3 per year. Currently, I am eligible to buy 7,000 shares. The stock sells for about $100 per share. I can buy it at $20 to $30 per share depending on when I received the options. My co-workers who have exercised their options and sold the stock are telling me the tax bill is incredible. Is it true that the entire amount is taxable as ordinary income? Is there any way to lower the tax bill?

A. Incentive stock options can be a great employee benefit, especially when your company is growing and the stock price is appreciating rapidly. The option gives you the right to buy shares of stock in the employer corporation at a fixed price (called the strike price or exercise price) sometime in the future.

The strike price is typically the market value at the time the option is granted. But as the stock price increases, you have the potential for substantial immediate gain when the option is exercised. Your concern about the taxes is warranted. If qualified according to IRS rules, stock acquired through employee stock options can receive capital gains treatment when sold. If not, they are taxed as a combination of compensation income (ordinary income tax rates) and capital gains, or solely as ordinary income.

Depending upon your individual tax circumstances, the alternative minimum tax may apply. The choices you make now will have a significant effect on the total taxes you pay. Therefore, it is important to seek a qualified tax advisor to help you plan your strategy.

The following basic information will help you get started. Several factors determine what tax treatment you qualify for. No income is reported when the stock option is granted. No income is reported when you exercise the option if the stock is transferred to you according to IRS rules. There are two primary requirements.

The first requirement is related to employment. You must be an employee of the corporation from the date of the granting of the stock option to within three months of the date of the exercise of the stock option. The second requirement is the holding period. You must hold the stock for at least one year after it is transferred to you. Also, you can't sell the stock for two years after the stock option is granted.

An employee can immediately sell the stock when the option is exercised in order to pay the exercise price. Or they can use other funds and have the shares transferred to their name. The stock may be the only asset with which to purchase the incentive stock.

However, the more favorable tax treatment requires that the asset is held long enough to be treated as a capital gain.

Lisa Wagoner, CPA, CFP, a financial planner with the Cornerstone Group in Ocean Springs, has helped clients handle employee stock options.

Rather than accumulating options, then selling all shares when options are exercised, she encourages employees to plan ahead for a systematic liquidation.

"By waiting and selling the stock all at once he (the employee) throws himself into the highest possible tax bracket," said Wagoner. "A systematic dissolution of the stock over time is a more conservative way to liquidate stock."

Disposing of the stock over time also has investment advantages. Wagoner said, "It is somewhat like a reverse dollar-cost averaging (in which you accumulate stock at specific intervals over a period of time)."

Wagoner says this allows you to take advantage of price fluctuations both in selling and reinvesting. "We don't ever know when prices will be high and when they will be low."

Another investment concern is diversification. Many employees find that their incentive stock becomes a huge majority of their overall portfolio. Wagoner points out, "Although a big company in a growing field may be unlikely to perform poorly, we simply don't know what will happen."

With this much of a single stock the employee portfolio is 100% correlated or totally dependent on the price of one company. Wagoner said, "I prefer to use asset classes with low correlations to one another. This basically means that when one is going up the other is going down."

A single stock or a diversified portfolio can get you where you want to be, but one gets you there with a lot less risk."

There are additional tax and investment considerations to review with your advisor. The key is to start now building a strategy that minimizes taxes while maximizing your risk-adjusted investment return.

Council continues plan revisions

By MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis City Council members continued a years-long quest for an overall development plan Monday, making revisions to a revised version of a document drafted in 1995.

Meeting in a workshop session, council members agreed to have staff compile a list of what changes they have agreed upon so far with their working draft. They also agreed to ask for help in laying out the dimensions and regulations for a "Depot District" in the downtown area.

Beyond those actions, council members also appeared in agreement that they should seek legal advice on the new language they hope to use in defining terminology used in the document.

The previous City Council had commissioned consultants to draw up a comprehensive planning document six years ago, a process that drew hundreds of area residents to public input sessions and later meetings.

But that plan became so engulfed in controversy that the mayor and city staffers came up with significant revisions for council's consideration.

New maps outlining future development categories have been proposed and debated in the ensuing years, and some interested citizens have doggedly followed council's considerations. Still, council has been unable to come to agreement on a document to adopt, and the process has stalled.

So much time elapsed that with elections on the horizon, the comprehensive plan was shoved to the back burner. After the election of two new council members two years ago, the comprehensive plan resurfaced. But progress has been slow in dealing with the document.

Council members gained renewed interest in adopting the document when they realized months ago that they had no zoning in place in the area that was annexed in the early 1990's to accommodate development of Casino Magic.

An overall development plan must be adopted by the city before zoning can be imposed on the annexed area. While the incumbent council is working to adopt the plan, they have imposed a building moratorium in the annexed area.

Monday, council member Tad Black made reference to a document, which he said was drafted by staffer Mike Cuevas concerning proposed regulations in the Depot District. Other city officials said, however, they never received a copy of the Cuevas suggestions.

Meanwhile, council member James Rutherford suggested council decide the geographic dimensions of such a district, before trying to define its regulatory features.

Council members agreed to ask Cuevas and Hancock County Historic Society President Charles Gray for help in defining the area and the regulations.

As the workshop discussion drifted from one topic to another Monday night, one frustrated citizen in the audience urged council members to shift their focus back to the plan.

On Tuesday, council members agreed to have another workshop on the document at council's first meeting in May.

Texas couple gives $4 million

A Houston, Texas, couple's gift of $4 million to the University of Mississippi will create a center for academic computing, enabling their alma mater to be both a leader and innovator in the field.

In a press conference held Apr. 16 on the Oxford campus, Will and Susanne Galtney unveiled their gift, which will fund the renovation of Weir Hall, creating a state-of-the-art academic computing facility and establishing an annual budget to maintain and advance the technology-based educational environment.

The Galtney gift comes during the Commitment of Excellence Campaign, which was announced Nov. 6 on the university's sesquicentennial. Ole Miss has a goal of attracting $200 million by December 2000, and alumni and friends have contributed $132 million thus far.

Sewer — District expanding

system would be used to pump the sewerage to the regional lift station in Waveland.

District vice-chairman Herman Johnson said he realized people were most interested in how much it would cost them to hook up to sewer lines. He said there would be an initial permit fee of $35 for the grinder, then $35 monthly, and residents would have to pay plumbing and electrical charges to tie their individual homes into the system.

John Lindberg of Bayside Park was the first to speak following Levy's presentation, and said, "I can't wait until it gets in place. It is going to increase everybody's property value."

Johnson told him design plans should be complete by June, with loan approval expected by September. The bids would go out soon afterwards, and work could begin as early as this November or December.

Another resident wanted to know if the treatment plant in Waveland could handle the sewerage from an additional 1,600 customers. Levy assured him that the plant had the capability to handle the increased load and has an additional 20 acres set aside for future expansion.

One resident wanted to know who would oversee the projects to insure that all citizens hook up to the system.

Johnson told him the District will oversee the projects, and residents will be given 90 days after installation to hook up. After that, they will be charged a fee of $2550 and treated as a new customer. "If they still refuse, we will take legal action," said Johnson.

Cornelius Ladner, a real estate developer who owns property on Hwy. 90, wanted to know how the commercial developer would be accommodated.

Johnson said developers planning to build while the sewerage is going in place would be provided a tap and pay a $500 fee for it that would later be deducted from the total cost of hookup. New homes that would be built after sewerage is already in place would pay a one-time fee of $2535 to hook up to the system, Johnson explained.

The meeting was also attended by Amy Gregory, executive director of Hancock County's Chamber of Commerce. She entered into the record a resolution passed by the Chamber and its membership and Environmental Committee, which unanimously supports extending sewerage throughout Hancock County.

Grant — to identify hazards

that it is important for the county to have a plan on file in order to assure future funding for the city.

The total amount of the grant is $30,000, with a 25 percent match, split between the three entities. Longo said the city's portion of the match, $2,500, may be paid with in-kind services.

The purpose of the plan, said Longo, is to identify potential hazards in order to get funds up front to fix them, rather than to do it after a disaster. He added that the city's application for this funding will not affect the ability to get future funding.

In other news, the board approved a resolution to form a committee to help spread the word about Census 2000. Each alderman will appoint two representatives to the committee, and Longo will appoint one representative per ward.

The committee will help inform people about the need for the census as well as provide information on when it will begin and what the procedures are. The committee will not participate in the actual census information gathering, however.

Longo stressed the importance of census counts, which plays a factor in such things as grant awards and applicable legislation.

P&Z — proposals delayed

action on the P&Z recommendations on Thursday following the P&Z meeting. As it stands, the commission will send its opinions to council's May 4 meeting instead.

The proposed Chapel Hill development already has had a public hearing before the commission, but a legal technicality and paperwork snag have kept the proposal in a pending status.

Developers need a special exception to create a special use district for a planned unit development. The acreage is zoned for commercial development.

Plans on hand Wednesday showed a slight lessening in proposed density, with 48 residential lots planned instead of 50. In addition, developers said they have dropped plans for a snowball stand on the tract.

Public support for the proposed up-scale development has been obvious from the start, and City Council is expected to endorse the plans once they make it through the P&Z level.

Other business that's been deferred until April 28 includes a proposed three-unit apartment building at 414 Hancock Street, and the site plan for an art studio at 299 South Second Street, across from old City Hall.

In addition, the commission is to consider subdivision of a tract of property lying between South Beach Boulevard and Third Street.

Commissioners who attended Wednesday's meeting included Tommy Chapman, Joe Ziegler Jr. and Boston Edmondson.

The sampling, which is also being partly funded by the Gulf of Mexico Program, will ultimately lead to a modeling plan that will determine the Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) of fecal coliform bacteria that can be handled by the Bay of St. Louis.

The study will also identify the sources of point and non-point pollution from all the tributaries that eventually enter into the Bay of St. Louis.

Stanislaus utilizing technology

St. Stanislaus students are taking full advantage of the Internet as a learning tool. Honors Calculus and Algebra II students continually utilize the Internet to download the most current mathematical information from a variety of web sites.

Under the direction of Mike Gemelli, math teacher, the math students frequent various web sites in an effort to stay current on the newest mathematical trends.

The Texas Instruments web site has been an important resource for students in the advanced math classes who regularly use TI-86 Graphic Link calculators in their classes.

The calculators can be plugged into the Power Macintosh computers in one of the computer labs on SSC's campus to download new formulas and other pertinent information from the visited sites.

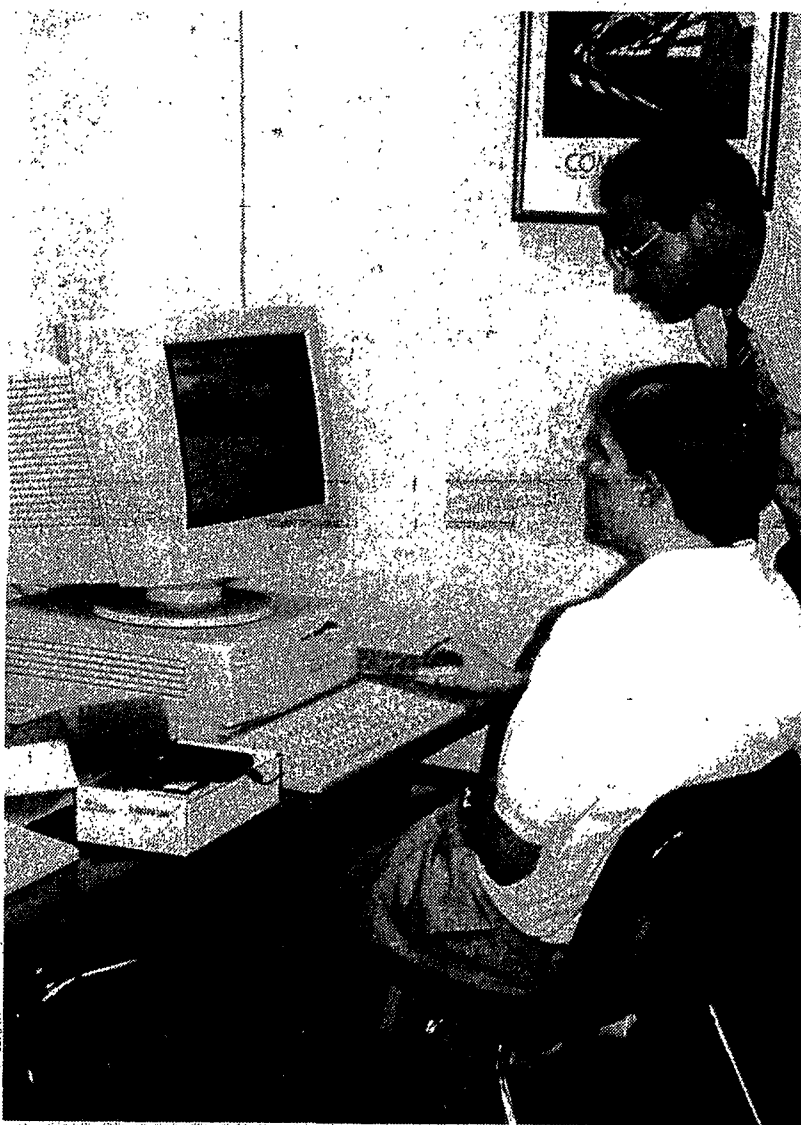

"We go to the web sites of many college math departments," said Gemelli. "Many colleges have extensive web sites containing preview entrance exams to the latest theories that have been developed at each college."

Students in Computer Discovery and Computer Applications classes have been using the Internet to find objective reviews about Apple's iMac computer.

The students then copied notes from various Internet sites and pasted them into a Claris Works word processing document. The research was finally used to create and type original multipage MLA-style reports about the iMac.

Word processing, database and spreadsheet activities will continue throughout the remainder of the second semester.

In Innovations in Technology, students are continuing desktop publishing. They have

TRAVEL & ENTERTAINMENT

Disney on Ice presents The Little Mermaid May 6-9 at Superdome

With a flip of her tail, Ariel, everyone's favorite, bright and bubbly mer-maiden is back in the spotlight! Feld Entertainment introduces Disney on Ice—The Little Mermaid, a full-length splash hit version—live and on ice—of Disney's 1989 Academy Award-winning blockbuster family film classic.

Internationally acclaimed Producer Kenneth Feld takes audiences of all ages on an undersea entertainment expedition to explore the watery world of Ariel, Sebastian, Flounder, Scuttle, Prince Eric and Ursula the sea witch.

Take a deep breath and dive right into the comedy, fantasy, romance, adventure and Academy Award-winning music by Alan Menken and Howard Ashman.

Ariel is the star of this fun-loving fish tale loosely based on the Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale. A mermaid with a mind of her own, the young princess, portrayed by Russian figure skating champion Inna Volianskaia, longs for a life on land, much to the dismay and disapproval of her powerful father, King Triton.

When she falls in love with a hunk of a human, Prince Eric, Russia's own Alexei Illakov, Ariel makes a bad barter with the diabolical diva of the deep, Ursula the sea witch, and loses her lovely voice. And thus, this determined young woman must win Eric's heart—with a little help from her friends—before time runs out and her destiny is doomed.

Waves of Wonderment

As navigator of this ice skating adventure, Director John Dietrich has charmingly transformed the beloved characters, sensational songs and all the heartwarming moments that film-goers remember into a live, on-ice presentation that is full of the familiar... as well as splashy surprises.

The graceful movements of figure skating blend perfectly with the constant ebb and flow of the undersea world. Creative Director Jerry Bilik helps this wet and wild spectacular stay on course.

The choreography of collaborators Cindy Stuart and Gia Guddat is inspired and effervescent. One moment onlookers are enjoying a breathtaking underwater ballet starring an astonishing assortment of undersea creatures and the next it's an up-tempo, energy-infused, rollicking rendition of "Under the Sea."

There's also a comedic cooking caper with Chef Louis, and a soft and sentimental "Kiss the Girl" scene with Ariel and Eric, set in a lovely lagoon.

Even evil is entertaining as Ursula and her three-headed minions offer a darkly vaudevilian version of "Poor Unfortunate Me." Stan Beard skillfully overlays the action with audio as the musical director for Disney on Ice—The Little Mermaid.

Currents of Creativity

Costume Designer Scott Lane weaves wonderment and whimsy around the entire production with his treasure chest of innovative attire. His floating flotilla of fish puppets artfully undulate with each passing wave, while Ariel's guardians, the merfolk, are the living embodiment of the sea itself with their barnacle- and coral-encrusted coats.

Ariel herself is radiant with her magical tail, finely tailored with rhinestones and sequins. Oversized but never over-looked, Ursula is evilly alluring in dark, dramatic dressings.

Bubbles of Brilliance

Production Designer Robert L. Smith has ingeniously engineered the wet and dry settings for Ariel's adventures. A bi-level stage set, with two elevators clearly and cleverly differentiates land from sea.

The upper deck, at 14 feet, represents the water line and is home base for Prince Eric, with his castle and his sailing vessel. Underneath is an open area—a grotto—that is used with interesting effect.

The focus of lighting designer Abigail Rosen Holmes' high-voltage rainbow of special effects is a specially designed projection system. Mirrors move and manipulate images onto the stage set and out on the ice, simulating the passage of time, changes of moods and movement of place, adding a richness and depth to this undersea odyssey.

Little Mermaid

Sebastian is joined by a flotilla of fish in an exuberant production number and shows Ariel that "Under the Sea" is where she belongs in the Feld Entertainment figure skating spectacular Disney on Ice presents The Little Mermaid.

Splashes of Spectacle
Ariel and her heart-warming transformation from mermaid to human... Sebastian and his amusing orchestration of "Under the Sea"... Prince Eric and the storm at sea... the battle between King Triton and Ursula... Disney on Ice—The Little Mermaid is an entertainment odyssey of epic proportions, a wet and wonderful treasure trove of fun and fantasy that aquatic adventurers of any age will enjoy.

Performances will be Thursday, May 6, 7:30 p.m.; Friday, May 7, 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, May 8, 11:30 a.m., 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.; and Sunday, May 9, 2 p.m.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Are you of the impression that the United States grows more tobacco than any other country in the world? I certainly was sure of it until I learned that China, of all places, produces more tobacco than any other country.

I guess it was the raw influence of ubiquitous commercials which led me, and probably most of you, to believe that the U.S. was the mecca of the tobacco culture. Believe it or not, 70 percent of the men in China smoke. And that's a bunch.

A bevy of doctors from the Chinese Academy of Preventive Medicine performed an incredible feat, the interviewing of over a million Chinese men scattered around the land.

This largest-ever epidemiologic study examined the connection between cigarettes and death. The results were even more shocking than the U.S. studies leading to the stern warning and advertising mandate of the Surgeon General in 1964.

As of now, there are 2,000 smoking-related deaths daily in China. The disturbing projection of the researchers is that the figure will balloon to 8,000 daily by the middle of the next century, unless swift countermeasures are taken.

That amounts to a third of Chinese men succumbing to the deadly poison of nicotine five decades hence. I do hope you do not have the cold-blooded attitude: "There are over a billion Chinese! They won't miss a million here or there."

Three times more likely to get lung cancer than non-smokers, and twice as likely to die of tuberculosis, middle-aged smokers in China account for 12 percent of male deaths.

Thirty-five years after the desperate declaration of the U.S. Surgeon General, the Chinese are beginning to awaken to the harsh realities of nicotine poisoning and debilitation. It is coming as a terrible shock to their nicotine culture.

By and large, the people of China have no clue as to the lethal qualities of nicotine of itself, or how it weakens the body, opening the door to a raft of killer diseases. Obviously, an intense, extensive educational program is needed.

On the other hand, producing and selling nicotine is big business, even bigger in China than in the U.S., with the Chinese government owning 90 percent of tobacco companies.

How does one take that economic powerhouse and deny it to so many who depend on it for their livelihood?

While blaming our tobacco companies for sickness is for the most part a violation of logic and common sense, especially with senseless multi-million-dollar court settlements, a middle ground must be found between freedom and business.

One almost has the helpless feeling, "How can we help the Chinese men save themselves?" while wondering even more pointedly why we cannot do a better job steering our youth and young adults away from the hook of nicotine.

By the same token, we respect the hard-working laborers who plant, cultivate, produce and sell tobacco for a living. It is too bad the nicotine products are not serving a good purpose in the world of nutrition or medicine.

Liquid nicotine is one of the most efficient insecticides in the world. That tells us volumes about the threats it poses to us humans when we fill our mouths and lungs with it.

Whether here in the U.S., in China or in the looming markets of the Third World, we need to think health first.

A burning issue

Family and Friends

While visiting at a nursing home, we met a woman who mentioned that she had no family or close friends. We know that sometimes older people do forget certain things, and it is even possible for them to not be able to remember those who were close to them. However, this situation did cause us to realize how blessed we are to have family and close friends.

Human nature is such, that at times we may not truly appreciate what we have until it is called to our attention, perhaps by the passing away of a dear relative or the moving away of a good friend. A person who has a loving family and good friends is indeed rich and they have been blessed by God. The Bible tells us that some friendships may not last, but that some friends are more loyal than brothers. We are all members of God's family, and we are called together in faith by Christ Jesus who is the Savior of the world. "What a friend we have in Jesus," is an old Christian song that reminds us that those who know Jesus as their Lord and Savior should never have to say that they have no family or friends.

For in Christ Jesus you are all sons of God, through faith.

"Big and Little" will be the theme for the children's story hour at the Kiln Library Thursday, April 29 at 10:30 a.m.

Little Chick's Big Adventure, Hush, Little Baby and Little Cloud are books to be read. Children will see a fingerplay and receive color sheets.

Weekly story hours are held September through May. The Kiln Library hosts a story hour every other Thursday.

Concerned youngsters

In honor of Earth Week, Taylor Cheek, 9, and Collin Cheek, 7, took it upon themselves to take care of the earth in their own neighborhood. Taylor and Collin collected several trash bags full of glass bottles, tin cans, paper trash and other litter in the woods around their Vacation Lane home. As Taylor Cheek said, "If we don't take care of our earth, all of our planet will die and we won't be able to breathe."

Commissioners
Hancock County Wastewater
District No. 1, Inc.
Bay St. Louis, Mississippi
We have audited the accompanying general purpose financial statements of Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, Inc. (District), a component unit of Hancock County, Mississippi, as of and for the year ended September 30, 1998, as listed in the table of contents. These general purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the District's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these general purpose financial statements based on our audit.
We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the general purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the general purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall general purpose financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.
In our opinion, the general purpose financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, Inc. as of September 30, 1998, and the results of its operations and cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.
In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated February 25, 1999, on our consideration of Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, Inc.'s internal control over financial reporting and our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grants.
Our audit was performed for the purpose of forming an opinion on the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole. The schedule of surety bonds is presented for the purpose of additional analysis and is not a required part of the general purpose financial statements of the District. The accompanying schedule of expenditures of federal awards is presented for the purpose of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget Circular A-133, audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and also is not a required part of the general purpose financial statements of the District. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the general purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole.
